

POPULATION STUDIES CENTER NEWSLETTER

PSC Colloquium Video

This week the PSC hosted Peter Catron, a Postdoctoral Fellow in the Department of Sociology and the Population Studies Center. His talk, The Citizenship Advantage: Immigration Socioeconomic Attainment across Generations in the Age of Mass Migration, went into detail about matching individuals across censuses and the role citizenship and naturalization played in the lives of migrants' and their children in the early 20th century.

Upcoming Events

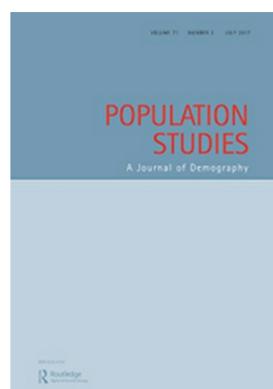

10.16.17

Alberto Ciancio "The Impact of Immigration Policies on Local Enforcement, Crime and Policing Efficiency"
PSC Fall 2017
Colloquium Series
103 McNeil Building
12-1pm

Penn Green Campus Partnership invites the Penn Community to come together for its annual ReThink Your Footprint campaign to promote waste minimization efforts. ReThink Your Footprint raises awareness of already-established waste minimization programs and initiatives in this area, inspires students, staff, and faculty to create new activities related to source reduction and recycling, and encourages everyone to rethink their footprint. Be sure to check out ReThink Your Footprint page for all of next weeks events, tips, and tools to minimize your waste in the office.

Perry World House Global Career Week

Are you interested in foreign policy or human rights? Do you want tips and insights straight from global diplomats?

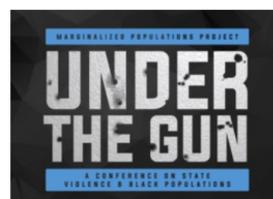

Are you wondering how to get started in international development -- or how to find an internship abroad? We will tackle all of these questions and more during Perry World House's Second Annual Global Career Week.

Early Career Investigators share a bite!

Chenoa Flippen (at the head, speaking) convened a meeting of early career scientists at the PSC in effort to facilitate better support and develop professional activities. Pictured above from left to right is Regina Baker, Sandra Florian, Ilka Vari-Lavoisier, Alex Shpenev, Alberto Ciancio, Monica King, Hyejeong Jo, Soo-Yeon Yoon and Romeo Gansey.

Irma Elo, Pekka Martikainen & Mikko Aaltonen authored Children's educational attainment, occupation, and income and their parents' mortality which was published this week in Population Studies.

10.19.17

Under the Gun: State Violence and Black Populations, the inaugural conference of the Marginalized Populations Project in Africana Studies at Penn, brings together scholars from the UPenn community with internationally renowned scholars and activists to examine the role of organized violence in the lives of black populations in multiple societies. More information about the speakers and schedule here.